

MA2009293:

This phase 2 has been quite difficult because of the many project and assignments and final exams, so we had to juggle a lot, one thing that I wish is that I had more time to enjoy this project, but since there was not enough time I had to cut a few corners in order to finish on time, unlike phase 1 where I took my time and did everything I could and enjoyed every line of code that I came up with. The biggest challenge we faced was not the statistics page, it was converting our means of storage to a different method using prisma, and we had so many errors, even before the submission by 2 hours we were still fixing the database because of its inconsistency, but once I learned about a function that delays then everything worked afterwards. After I submit this project I will go back and perfect the rest of the website and I will add more things, its just fun that way.
